

Krista Sermon has been Deputy Director of the Legal Division since the Division's creation in 2022. Prior to undertaking this position, she was manager of the Legal Section in the Revenue Administration Division. She has worked for the Comptrollers' Office for nearly 7 years.

Ms. Sermon is a life-long resident of Maryland. She attended college and law school in Washington, DC. After law school, she held several positions in private practice as well as in State Government, including at the Baltimore City Department of Social Services. In her time at the Comptroller's Office, she has been involved in legislative tracking and drafting, as well as in the regulatory promulgation process.